Employee Recognition

Recognize supports social or private recognition. Staff can send, either directly to a user or publicly, badges that define the value of the recognition. Different roles, such as managers or executives, can send role-specific badges as well.

Discover & Promote Values

Recognize helps your company track and quantify important attributes via recognition badges sent every day. By promoting positive behaviors through your employee recognition program, leadership and managers have insight into critical people analytics that help determine where employees excel and where they need help.
